Epstein Files – 50% of GOP Discourse:

- This segment of the conversation is overwhelmingly focused on the recently released Epstein files and accusations that House Republicans are protecting individuals connected to Jeffrey Epstein.
- Outrage dominates the tone, with contributors condemning what they perceive as a widespread cover-up within the GOP.

Limited Government and Fiscal Responsibility – 25% of GOP Discourse:

- Among supporters, the most praised theme is the push for smaller government. This discourse applauds House Republicans for tax cuts and deregulation policies.
- Advocates argue these efforts reduce federal overreach, empower citizens, and represent a return to core conservative values—restoring trust among fiscally conservative voters.

Economic Achievements – 15% of GOP Discourse:

- Proponents also credit the GOP with economic successes such as job creation, increased business investment, and overall growth.
- This narrative supports the claim that current GOP policies are yielding tangible benefits for the country, especially for entrepreneurs and large employers.

Immigration and Border Security – 10% of GOP Discourse:

- Supporters praise strict stances on immigration and efforts to secure the U.S. border.
- This group sees these policies as upholding national identity, enforcing the rule of law, and protecting American workers from what they consider harmful lax immigration practices.

Critical Discourse Breakdown: House Democrats

Epstein Files Cover-up – 35% of Critical Democrat Discourse:

- This segment of the discussion focuses on allegations that Democrats are deliberately withholding or obscuring documents related to the Jeffrey Epstein scandal.
- Many posts accuse Democratic leaders of shielding pedophiles and protecting individuals with ties to powerful elites, framing the controversy as a matter of government transparency and justice.
- The underlying narrative casts the Democratic Party as complicit in a broader institutional failure, generating substantial distrust and outrage across the discourse.

Democratic Leadership Hypocrisy – 30% of Critical Democrat Discourse:

- A large portion of the conversation critiques key Democratic figures including Hakeem Jeffries, Nancy Pelosi, and Ilhan Omar, accusing them of being hypocritical and corrupt.
- These posts highlight behaviors such as double standards, vague statements, and alliances with ethically questionable individuals.
- The sentiment reflects deep dissatisfaction with perceived self-serving politics and a lack of accountability from those in leadership positions.

Immigration and Border Policy Criticism – 20% of Critical Democrat Discourse:

- This theme revolves around disapproval of the Democratic stance on immigration and border security.
- Critics argue that the party enables illegal immigration and fails to protect U.S. borders, harming both economic conditions for working families and national security.
- There is a recurring perception that Democrats prioritize political gain and ideological agendas over the welfare of legal citizens.

Economic and Minimum Wage Concerns – 15% of Critical Democrat Discourse:

- Discussions also center on economic grievances, especially around wage stagnation, inflation, and fiscal policy.
- Many posts criticize Democratic policies as favoring wealthy donors or corporate agendas rather than addressing everyday financial struggles of working-class Americans.
- Concerns about minimum wage levels and rising costs of living are used to paint a picture of policy neglect and poor governance.
